Introduction

The International Arab Society of Certified Accountants (IASCA)

The International Arab Society of Certified Accountants (IASCA) was established on January 12, 1984 as a non-profit professional accounting association in London, UK. It was formally registered in Amman on February 24, 1994 under the name “The Arab Society of Certified Accountants (ASCA)”; then on August 18, 2013 ASCA name has changed to become “The International Arab Society of Certified Accountants (IASCA)”.

IASCA was established in 1984 by a group of an elite Arab accountants as a non-profit professional accounting association which aims at advancing the profession of accounting, management and related disciplines in the countries of the League of Arab States. IASCA also aims at maintaining the professional independence of accountants and their protection, and the application of professional supervisory measures as a way to advancing the professions of accounting and auditing. It also aims at developing and facilitating the continuous dissemination and exchange of professional and technical information among accountants by holding conferences, meetings, seminars, training courses, and academic gatherings in addition to encouraging academic and professional research.

IASCA has gained a reputable professional position at both Arab and international levels. Based on its concern for developing accounting and auditing professions in the Arab world to the highest international professional levels, IASCA has started since its inception to monitor laws and legislations related to these professions seeking a role for Arab accountants in the international forums. As such, IASCA works at providing the Arab world with Arab accountants having academic and professional qualifications that are at par with established international qualifications. IASCA also keeps pace with economic events, and develops and publishes new financial and business concepts and ideas in order to provide its members and associates with the ability and means to keep pace with developments and innovations in their fields and to excel in the professions of accounting and auditing.

IASCA signed 35 cooperation agreements with several universities, educational and academic institutions and organizations to prepare students for the professional accountant qualification in order to hold the professional courses of IASCA’s curriculum as well as various specialized training courses that meet the continuous and increasing needs of the business community. The cooperation agreements make it possible to schedule the professional accountant qualification examinations in different Arab capitals and cities at the same time to facilitate the examination process for students, thus saving time, effort and cost.

IASCA Objectives

- Advance the profession of accountancy, auditing and other related fields as applied and used in the various professional services provided by accountants in all industrial, commercial and/or public service sectors throughout the Arab world.
- Protect and maintain professional independence of accountants, and implement professional supervision standards as a mean of advancing the professions of accounting and auditing.
- Develop and facilitate the circulation and exchange of academic and professional knowledge among accountants and professionals by organizing conferences, meetings, seminars, training courses and academic gatherings in addition to encouraging scientific and professional research.

IASCA International Memberships and Agreements

IASCA works hard and on a continuous basis to meet all professional requirements to make it eligible to receive appropriate international status.

Memberships:

- The International Federation of Accountants (IFAC).
- The International Committee for Accounting Education and Research (IAAER).
- Consultative status with the UN Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC).

Licensing Agreements:

- IFRS Foundation.
- Wiley

Continuing Professional Education

The first commitment of any professional association, organization or society is to concentrate on the public interest and gain trust by ensuring that its members continue to acquire the latest academic and practical knowledge as well as various technical skills, and keep up with the rapid developments in finance, business, accounting and auditing. It is therefore necessary for any professional association, organization or society to develop programs for continued professional education.

Due to IASCA's commitment to professional education, a number of professional and specialized training programs in the fields of accounting and auditing were developed and are offered by IASCA or through recognized academic institutions throughout the Arab world such as the Talal Abu-Ghazaleh Academies, and Talal Abu-Ghazaleh Training in addition to several public and private universities and institutions throughout the Arab world.

All IASCA's members are required to cover (20) hours training courses to renew their membership annually.
